GREETING FROM THE DIRECTOR

As the summer breeze turns slightly chilly, there is no better time than now to enjoy the cultural events we offer. Our Japanema cinema screening is making trips outside our LA home, trying to reach a wider audience. "Postwar Shadow," a collaborative exhibition with the Getty Museum opens its door to the public in a few days. The exhibition features an internationally renowned Japanese photographer Ms. Ishiuchi Miyako and her prolific body of work, as well as the works of five other female Japanese photographers of younger generations. Do not miss this rare opportunity to take a glimpse of a diverse artistic expression of Japanese photography.

For those who will not be able make it to these events, I still have several important messages to deliver. The guidelines for the 2016-2017 Japan Foundation grant programs have been announced and if you are interested in applying for a grant in the fields of arts & culture, academic studies, and Japanese language education, please review our grants carefully and let us know if you have any questions and concerns. Also, we have just announced the call for application for our J-LEAP (Japanese Language Education Assistant Program) program, which will send native Japanese Language Assistant Teachers (ATs) to select organizations across the country interested in hosting them. This program is currently in its 5th year and has proven to be a great learning opportunity for not only the ATs and the students who are taught by them, but also for the host teachers in terms of the various training sessions that the Program provides for them. So if you are a teacher of Japanese language and interested in honing your team-teaching skills please give this opportunity a serious thought.
Last but not the least, I would like to direct your attention once again to our Facebook page for updates that this monthly newsletter cannot cover in a timely fashion. In order to make sure you’re seeing posts from JFLA in your Facebook News Feed, just click on the "Liked" button at the top of our Facebook page and select "Get Notifications" from the dropdown menu. There is also a feature in the same menu called "See First". Click both and we will stay better connected.

Sincerely,

Hideki Hara, Director

JFLA LECTURE SERIES 31: FRAGILITY IN PHOTOS
- A PHOTOGRAPHER'S INTIMATE STUDY OF THE BODY AND SOUL-
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 2 @7PM (JFLA AUDITORIUM)
FREE TO ATTEND, RSVP REQUIRED!

Get ready for a captivating behind-the-lens discussion with a master of modern photography, the prolific and provocative photographer, Ishiuchi Miyako who will be in L.A. this October for the opening of her brand new photo exhibition titled Postwar Shadows at the J. Paul Getty Museum.

Since the late '70s, Ishiuchi Miyako has produced collections of her own photography which have explored various thought-provoking subjects such as post-war daily Japanese life in the formerly US-occupied town of Yokosuka, as well as the vulnerability and aging of the body, especially the female body. In her lecture, Ishiuchi will provide us with an insight into her photographic style, in which she uses pathos rather than passion to express herself and create work that contains a quiet quality while being powerful and profound at the same time.

A LETTER TO MOMO
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 4 @2PM (JAMES ARMSTRONG THEATRE)
(3330 CIVIC CENTER DR., TORRANCE)

A Letter to Momo was seven years in the making. The handmade animation is superb, from the painstakingly rendered serenity of the island's Shinto shrines to the climactic finale – a frantic chase featuring thousands of squirming, morphing ghosts and spirits that is the best cinematic flight of supernatural fancy in years.

This event is supported by Japan Business Association of Southern California (JBA).

ISHIUCHI MIYAKO: POSTWAR SHADOWS
OCTOBER 6, 2015 – FEBRUARY 21, 2016 (GETTY CENTER)

In the 1970s Ishiuchi Miyako shocked Japan's male-dominated photography establishment with Yokosuka Story, a gritty, deeply personal project about the city where she spent her childhood and where the United States established a naval base in 1945. Working prodigiously ever since, Ishiuchi has consistently fused the personal and political in her photographs, interweaving her own identity with the complex history of postwar Japan that emerged from the shadows cast by American occupation.

This exhibition is the first in the United States to survey Ishiuchi's prolific career and will include photographs, books, and objects from her personal archive. Beginning with Yokosuka Story (1977-78), the show traces her extended investigation of life in postwar Japan and culminates with her current series ひろしま/hiroshima, on view seventy years after the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

THE YOUNGER GENERATION: CONTEMPORARY JAPANESE PHOTOGRAPHY
OCTOBER 6, 2015 – FEBRUARY 21, 2016 (GETTY CENTER)

Beginning in the 1990s, a number of young female photographers in Japan garnered attention by making provocative self-portraits and intimate images of domestic scenes. Challenging the status quo of the male-dominated photography community, their work prompted the controversial and reductive term onnanoko shashin, or “girl photographs”.

This exhibition showcases the versatile and complex work of five midcareer Japanese-born artists who emerged in the wake of “girl photography”: Kawauchi Rinko, Onodera Yuki, Otsuka Chino, Sawada Tomoko, and Shiga Lieko. Mavericks in their field, these women continue in the tradition of such pioneers as Ishiuchi Miyako, whose work appears in the companion exhibition Ishiuchi Miyako: Postwar Shadows.

Article from Cleveland.com
In July of 2015, 32 US high school students participated in the final JET Memorial Invitational Program (JET-MIP). They travelled to Japan for a two week study tour of the Tohoku region, focusing on the cities of Rikuzentakata and Ishinomaki. These were the cities that Montgomery Dickson and Taylor Anderson were assigned during their tenure as JET Assistant Language Teachers. Sadly, they lost their lives during the Great East Japan Earthquake and Tsunami in March, 2011 and JET-MIP was created to commemorate their work. Participants took part in exchanges with local elementary, middle and high school students as well as local community groups with the purpose of fostering friendship and goodwill between both countries. Each month, we will feature four essays written by the participants describing their experiences in Japan. Click below to read about their memorable journey.
